In the years which Courtroom Sunshine has been tracking and compiling the Custody Ruling Statistics for Ohio judges in contested cases, it has been observed that a father will only receive full custody of the minor children in a contested divorce if at least 1 of the following 5 conditions exist with the mother: Substance abuse (alcoholism and/or drug addiction), Incarcerated, Been diagnosed by a medical professional with mental issues, She is grossly derelict of her parental duties (such as abandonment of the minor children), Engaged in prostitution. Otherwise, of all judges tracked by Courtroom Sunshine, the mother will always win full custody.
